Political philosophy. Princeton, NJ: Films for the Humanities and Sciences, c2004. General producer, Eliseo Alvarez; executive producer, Camila O'Donnell; producer, Lila Kononovich; director, Pablo Garcia.

(Who should lead the world's only superpower? When is it acceptable to topple another country's leader? Are personal freedom and national security mutually incompatible? The answers to urgent political questions such as these are informed by 23 centuries of discourse that started with The Republic. This program focuses successively on the pivotal ideas of Plato, Aristotle, Hobbes, Rousseau, Marx, Mill, John Rawls, and Robert Nozick to elucidate the thinking that underpins the West's conceptions of good and bad government).DVD [Videorecording].

Modern philosophy. Princeton, NJ: Films for the Humanities and Sciences, c2004. General producer, Eliseo Alvarez; executive producer, Camila O'Donnell; producer, Lila Kononovich; director, Pablo Garcia. (During the 16th century, a new breed of thinker arose, equal parts philosopher and scientist, that threw off the received wisdom of the past and started afresh. In this program contemporary philosophers and academicians address the major philosophical currents of that era - and the explosive controversies surrounding them. Bacon's Novum organum, Descartes' Discours de la methode, Hobbes' Leviathan, Spinoza's Ethica and other germane works are cited). DVD [Videorecording].
